Divine Feminine

© Kim Rene Kiefer

The creative spark of Divine Feminine ignites the universe. In Hinduism, this spark is referred to as shakti. According to Thomas Ashley-Farrand in Shakti Mantras, “Any kind of force, power, or influence has its genesis in shakti, and shakti is feminine in nature.” You have an inner shakti — a powerful reservoir of feminine energy at your disposal.

Mantra for Divine Love

Aham Prema
[Ah-hahm Preh-mah]
“I am Divine Love.”

From Shakti Mantras by Thomas Ashley-Farrand

Quote

Joy is a net of love by which you can catch souls.

~ Mother Teresa

Honey Bee

Bees are amazing creatures. Pollination is their gift to humanity. One we cannot live without. When you eat of the harvest, count your blessings and appreciate bees that pollinated crops. Ted Andrews states honey bees are about accomplishing the impossible. Indeed, how can such a small insect contribute in such a big way? What in your life needs pollination so you can accomplish the impossible?

Magical Thirteen

The number 13 is magical. In each year, there are 13 moon cycles of 28 days. Each of the thirteen moons embodies:

1. Life
2. Wisdom
3. Truth
4. Dreams
5. Listening
6. Storytelling
7. Love
8. Healing
9. Goals
10. Creativity
11. Grace
12. Praise
13. Vision

A woman’s cycle is 28 days. Native American women gathered to share the magic, mystery, and power of their moon cycles. They understood the gift of life’s blood, its ebb and flow. Dreaming together, they wove a tapestry of the future through their combined visions.

Mothering Yourself

May is when you honor mothers and acknowledge mothering. You buy flowers to cheer her. Cook dinner to nourish her. When did you last do that for yourself? It is easy to overlook mothering and nurturing yourself. Yet, it is so important to your well-being. Be good to yourself. Treat yourself with kindness, compassion, and love. Give yourself permission to take a day off, take a nap, take rest.
