~ June 2012 ~

Divine Masculine

The Divine Masculine is the action energy of the universe. Known as shiva, this energy sets into motion the creative energies sparked by the Divine Feminine (shakti). Aimed at accomplishment, it moves forward with the precision of a well-aimed arrow and unerringly makes its mark. Want to get something done? Tap into your shiva and let it fly!

Humpback Whale

Male humpbacks are known for their unique whale song. Each year, they gather near Hawaii for a concert of breathtaking proportion. Combined with acrobatic breaches and splashes, it is quite a performance. Your life is a living performance. There are no dress rehearsals. Each moment is an opportunity in which to breathe and sing your unique song. What are you keeping to yourself? Let it go. Take it deep. Make your big splash in life today!

NYC Time

Let's go	No time to waste
Make it quick	Make a move
New York minute	Tick tock
The clock ticks	It's time to groove

Fathering Yourself

June is when you honor fathers and acknowledge fathering. You buy power tools to promote his ability to get things done. Watch sports in order to bond. When did you last bond with yourself? It is easy to overlook having a relationship with yourself. Yet, it is so important to be with ourselves and spend time alone. Be there for yourself. Make a personal honey-do list for you. Give yourself permission to put yourself first. You'd be amazed at what you can accomplish!

Alchemical Change

An archangel took his sword and divided light from dark, masculine from feminine. This inherent split is within us all, an opportunity to integrate and balance our duality.

The pendulum has been swinging between these two energies. Back and forth through the ages, as we moved from one extreme to the other. Our world has been immersed in masculine energy for some time now. Look at all the things we've accomplished through action. Great!

Yet, more and more we see ourselves embracing both masculine and feminine aspects of ourselves. We find it is a time where we must embrace both and unite our duality.

Embrace and unite your inner duality. It's why you're here. Be true to the alchemical change taking place within you.
