

Soulestial Musings™

~ November 2012 ~

Grace

A state of grace implies many things. It is a divine pardon, a compassionate act of forgiveness, an offering of unconditional love, a karmic cleansing of your soul. During the holidays, it is closely associated with thanks and blessings. Give thanks that you live in a state of divine grace. It is your birthright. With grace, you are open to receive the miracles yet to come.

Turkey Vulture

One of the great raptors of the sky, the turkey vulture is not a hunter. It is a scavenger who performs a service by eating the flesh of dead creatures. Able to digest disease, it is the ultimate purifier. According to Ted Andrews, its scientific name means "golden purifier." Flying high on the thermals, it uses wind power in its efficient and graceful flight. It conserves energy, and in so doing, can soar to even greater heights. It can teach you to focus your all-encompassing vision on the future, embrace a higher purpose, and soar to new heights.

Choose Your Words Wisely

From EST to NLP to spiritual authors through the years, the message is loud and clear. Today, more than ever, you need to pay attention to the words you speak aloud and those you whisper silently to yourself.

That critical inner voice has no say or sway over your life. Replace every negative thought and word with something positive. You have a higher purpose, a spiritual calling. It is time to acknowledge your self and your gifts.

Years ago, inspiration came in the form of a book by John Randolph Price called The Angels Within Us. It was filled with I AM prayers. Coupled with Cecil B. DeMille's The Ten Commandments, it was a reminder of the importance of the great I AM. You and I are part and parcel of the great I AM. In every utterance of I AM, you either put down or uplift that I AM within. I AM in the negative is a form of taking God's name in vain. God said "I am that I am."

What I AM statements are you using in your life? Are they negative or positive? Consider the Law of Attraction. Your words have the power to attract either negative or positive things into your life. You have the power to choose your words, so choose them wisely. Choose to uplift and empower yourself in every moment. Remember, you are smart, brilliant, beautiful, and wise beyond measure.

End of the Mayan Calendar

December 21, 2012, marks the end of one of the Mayan calendars. It is an ending and a beginning. Humankind moves into the Fifth Sun. This new era will be a time of harmony, understanding, cooperation, and balance. We have a sacred opportunity to participate in new ways of being. The Maya believe in human destiny, both individual and collective. Each of us must find our destined path, walk in truth, speak with sincerity, live in love, be grace.

Upcoming Events and Service Opportunities

Stay tuned for new class dates as we approach 2013. Remember to celebrate the upcoming sacred dates — 12/12/12, 12/21/12, 12/22/12, 12/25/12, and 12/31/12. These dates are portals, providing paths to greater wisdom. There are many opportunities to be of service to the planet. Find your path of service, whatever and wherever it may be. Namaste!
